Prior Art Rejection based on Cantor '146 and '820 Withdrawn

Applicant's remarks regarding the 35 U.S.C. 102(e) rejection based on the Cantor published applications, the subsequent issuing Cantor patent and the 37 CFR 1.131 declaration have been found persuasive and the rejection is withdrawn.

Rejections based on Prior Art

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 1-4, 17, 20, 23-26, 31, 34, 37, 41, 45-49, 51, 59-63, 65-68, 71-73, 75, 76, 79 and 86-90 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Simmons et al (US 5,503,187).

Simmons et al disclose in Figure 7 a device 134 capable of being implanted with a jaw bone and supporting a dental implant comprising a body 134 having an upper coronal end and lower apical end. The device includes a threaded external surface 142 that extends substantially to the apical end. The device further includes a first internal surface 138 concentric with the external surface 142 and a second inner surface that intersects with the first internal surface. In regard to claim 2, the upper shoulder of the upper thread of 142 is capable of acting as a "stop mark." In regard to claim 37, element 135 is deemed to meet all the reasonably ascertainable limitations of a "dental component."

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 6, 20, 21, 27, 34, 35, 37-39, 41, 43, 44, 51, 52, 54, 55, 57, 58, 69, 75-77, 79, 80, 82, 84 and 85 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Simmons et al (US 5,503,187).

In regard to claims 6, 27 and 69 Simmons et al is silent as to the use of double threading for the threaded component 134. One of ordinary skill in the art, however, would have found obvious the use of prior art double threading in order to decrease the number of turns required for installing the component. In regard to claims 20, 34 and 75, Simmons et al does not disclose the size of the threading, however, one of ordinary skill in the art would have found threading in the micrometer range obvious as a matter of routine construction. In regard to claims 21, 35 and 77, Simmons does not disclose how the annular opening is formed in the object 136, however, one of ordinary skill in the art would have found the use of a trephine drill for making the annular opening to have been obvious because such annular openings are commonly formed with a trepbine drill. In regard to claims 43, 44, 57, 58, 84 and 85, Simmons et al do not give any specific sizes for the component 134, however, they indicate that it may be used for a variety of different purposes inherently having different sizes. To have constructed the Simmons et al component 134 within the size range claimed would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art so that it could fit similar sized devices, e.g. tubing, valve stems etc. In regard to claims 38, 39, 41, 51, 52, 54, 55, 79, 80 and 82, the present claims set forth no connection or arrangement between the two apparatuses claimed – the mere use of a Simmons et al in a dental lab or office where dental crowns are present would appear to reasonably meet the broad language of the “combination claim.” To have used the Simmons et al device in a common dental setting would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art as a matter of routine.

Prior Art

Applicant's information disclosure statement of February 25, 2011 has been considered and an initialed copy enclosed herewith.

Allowable Subject Matter

Claims 22, 36 and 78 are objected to as being dependent on a rejected base claim but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form to include all of the limitations of the claims from which they depend.
